Howard was a devout Christian, he lived his entire life for God, he enjoyed attending church, singing hymns and sang in the choir for years. He had a deep baritone voice that was distinctly heard above the others. He read and studied his bible daily, taught Sunday School and later became an ordained deacon. He loved listening to music, especially Christian, country, piano and bagpipes as well as live performances and watching music specials on tv. He had a corny sense of humor and was often telling jokes right up to the end. Howard really liked family gathering, dinners, fellowship with church family and spending time with his grandchildren. I remember Uncle Howard as being very soft spoken gentle man. He adored Aunt Betty , Steve, Kenny and Michelle. I know my cousins hearts are aching and I'm sad for them. I'm sure Aunt Betty is happy to have him home with her in Heaven. Peace be with you all.
