my dearest sister. Went to church this evening to light a candle in your memory. It's been two years since you left us. I can't believe you left without saying bye to me. You've always been like my second mother. Wherever you are my loving sister, please know that I'm always praying that your soul to rest in peace. Only God knew how much you suffered. I am still proud of you and I know that deep down in your soul, you are a beautiful human being. Please come into my dreams. From your loving sister.

My beautiful sister, I have been reminiscing of all the holidays we spent together. You would be in charge of baking the rum cakes the sponge cakes and you giving us kids the empty bowl to feast off the sugar and butter mixture remnants. You would decorate a Christmas tree you made with your own hands with blinking lights and angel hair. I still remember the throw you made with little pieces of cloth from glamour girl. We still have the singer machine you used to sew on. Mammy still use the machine. She would have it repaired and oiled from time to time. She refuse to get rid of it. Sis, I cannot forgive myself for not remembering all the beautiful things you did for us.. I just want you to know that I really loved you but didn't get a chance to tell you. So here I am pouring my heart out to you. I have realized one thing from all that happened and that is "never take anyone for granted and treasure everyone who ever means something to me and let them know and not wait for a tomorrow and to also show respect to my enemies if I have any." Goodness will always reign. May God bless you and keep you paths clear as you continue on your journey and hope it is smoother that it was on earth. Please say hello to pappy, Amar, Tanty and Lysa.. from all of us in San Juan.
