Kyle Anderson posted:

Uncle Doug, Aunt Linda and you were such a presence in my childhood days especially around the holidays. Some of my earliest memories were of you and Linda visiting us on St Louis. You taught me to put ketchup on my eggs and "why bothrr to unbutton your shirt, just pull it off like a tee shirt", much to the chagrin of my parents. I still enjoy ketchup on eggs but do unbutton. You were someone who found the unconventional ways of everyday life, and enjoyed going "against the grain". I say this in a positive way. You were a critical thinker with an attitude and had found the joy of living life. I know you were devastated at the loss of Linda and it was sad to lose her. I'm sure Linda and you are back together now making strikes in the heavenly bowling alley. Keep an eye on Mike from above as I'm sure he'll want a couple consults, no one can replace you, I'm sure. Take care Uncle Doug, we all will miss you. - Kyle Anderson, nephew
