The one that comes up most often in my mind, is that would be and Chris were in college. Remember, we went out late one night And came home and caused a huge ruckus at his house being The noisy boys we were. I remember being embarrassed and slightly afraid to talk to John the next morning knowing I'm gonna get my butt chewed. But instead, I come downstairs and he and Linda made us all baked eggs, pancakes, and we're just as chipper as could be. I'll never forget how comfortable he made me feel, and truly treated me like he cared about me.

John and Linda were our next door neighbors and friends for years. My fondest memories of John were seeing him and my husband Jim sitting on the front porch just spending the time talking. My other other fondest memory of John was watching him take my oldest daughter and tie a string to her very loose tooth and pull it for her. He was a great neighbor and friend. Our family truly loves him and his family. He will be missed.
