Michael, Benevolence Imeiya

NOV 27, 2025 - NOV 27, 2025

I held you today
My darling child
I held you today
For a little while

Your little hands
Your little smile
It only lasted
A little while

I kissed your cheek
I kissed your nose
I've loved you longer
Then anyone knows

Your heart matched mine
My missing piece
And now that you've gone
I'm incomplete

So, I ask of you
My darling child
Take mine when you go
Borrow it for a while

So, until we meet

Face to face
And I can hold you
In a true embrace

You'll have me with you
You won't be alone
Because in a mother's heart
Is a child's home

I held you today
My darling child
I'll hold you again
In a little while

Rinalynn Sato lit a candle in honor of Benevolence.

oh my Benevolence, my heart aches as i think back to the moment i discovered i was pregnant. i remember the mix of emotions that swirled inside me as i took those five pregnancy tests, hoping against hope that they'd all say the same thing. and when they did, i was over the moon with excitement. the first time i heard your heartbeat, it was like music to my ears. i was captivated by the sound of your tiny heart beating away. seeing you for the first time, all snug and tiny inside me, made me feel like i was on top of the world. And when i found out i was having a baby girl, i was overcome with emotion, knowing i'd have a little mini-me to love and cherish. but life had other plans, and the day came when your heartbeat fell silent. it's been hard to come to terms with the fact that you're no longer with me, that i'll never get to see you grow up or hold you close to my heart. i'm sorry i couldn't be there for you sooner, sorry i couldn't give you the life you deserved. my baby, i love you more than words can say, and i wish you could be here to guide me through this tough time.

A beautiful memory we will always hold close was the moment we found out your mommy and daddy were expecting you. Your daddy shared the news in our group chat, and we were all so excited for your arrival. Our Beautiful Benevolence — God placed you in mommy and daddy's arms and hearts, and on the same day you were born, He lovingly called you home. The heartache and pain they feel, and the sadness carried by your aunts, uncles, cousins, and our whole family, is beyond words. But our love for you is deeper still. Fly high, our precious angel. Continue to guide mommy and daddy. Visit them, comfort them, and let them feel your presence. Let them know you are safe, loved, and waiting with our Heavenly Father. ☐ - Love Aunty Lynnlynn ☐
