“ I loved the time I spent with Sherry, each Sunday, reading through the bible, and praying together. She shared her knowledge of the word, and was so caring. She always wanted to pray for her family and friends. It really touched me when last March on the anniversary of my daughter's passing, she called to make sure I was doing all right. This was especially meaningful since I knew she was not feeling well, but she thought of me. She was a real friend, who shared your joys and your sorrows. We both lost our husbands the same year, and I think the Lord brought us a beautiful friendship at a time when we needed it the most. I will miss her very much, but just like you, her family, I will look forward to seeing her later. Love and prayers,
