“ Sherry is an example of the fortitude, wit, and intelligence typified by the women in her family. She struggled valiantly for many years with devastating health issues. I am thinking of the strength of her mother and grandmother and sisters as they have faced life's challenges and comforted by their examples and the knowledge that Jehovah will keep her personality carefully protected until it is time to reunite her with her loving family and friends. I remember telling Sherry how Sarah made Felecia, Sherry's daughter lie down in the seats in front of us at a theater so no one would sit in front of us obscuring our view of James Bond. Sherry laughed and told me that it felt good to do so. There will be more laughter soon
