“ Wanda was the sweetest, most kind person I have known in a long time. She came into our church and hearts in 2002 when we first moved back to Sand Springs. What a lovely soul. She did love children, even older ones like myself and others who she invited over and taught us how to make a lemon meringue pie. She crocheted a few things for me, saying she asked God to give her this talent to continue on in so her hands would always remain busy. She was never one to brag, but she won several cooking contest and recipes and she had won honors in photography. She was an all around talented and lovely lady. Always a friend whenever anyone reached out to her. I last saw her in WalMart before her going into the hospital, she talked about her family and always was a good sport to John's teasing. She was truly loved and will be missed in our lives and hearts.
